PARIS, France, July 23.—A revolution in surgery is impending, according to a report made to the Paris Academy of Sciences by Professor A. D'Arsonval, whose teachings are well known throughout the world. Twenty years hence, it is prophesied, a strong electrical current will have replaced the surgeon's knife and saw, for use on the corpse.

"With powerful apparatus," said D'Arsonval, "we have been able to pass through certain animals electrical currents which caused their bodies

SOLEDAV, July 22.—An automobile leaving Mrs. E. A. Conner, son, for son Karl and Mrs. Austin Conner, all of San Francisco, caught fire from the gasoline tank, tore her residence and was completely destroyed.

"The scheme I think was to open by a broken piece of the machinery wheel."

"FOLEY KIDNEY PILLS HAVE CURED ME."

The above is a quotation from a letter written by Ed. Winkler, Manchester, N.H., of emphysema, which caused him trouble all his life, gave out and heered me to get some strength and ambition. To have lost all with dizzy spells, my head would swim and my eyes were dimmed. I ordered Foley Kidney Pills regularly and I look perfectly well and feel like a new man.

Stockton, July 23.—A Santa Fe freight train came racing to Stockton yesterday with a blazing fire that threatened to destroy the city. It is reminding those who saw it of Halley's comet. In some manner a fire started on Dr. C. L. Six's ranch west of Stockton and destroyed a lot of hay and grain. The flames had reached the railroad track when the freight train arrived at Colton, a few miles from here, yesterday.

Just as the train pulled out the trainmen discovered a large refrigerator car on fire. The engineer turned on full speed and raced for Stockton, scattering fire along both sides of the tracks. The grass and hay fields alongside of the rails were scorched and the fire was causing great excitement among the farmers, who had to cease all work and turn out every man at hand to extinguish the fire before it reached the large grain fields.

GOSSIP FROM SAN FRANCISCO WEEKLIES

As to the Spirit
Of the Duffy Case

It is the power of duly appreciating the little things of life that enables us to apprehend the big ones. So let us ponder the Duffy case. The Duffy case is one of the trifles that make up the history of the Duffy case. The spirit that created the Duffy case is typical. The mental of the Duffy case are typical. The light that the Duffy case throws on the mental processes of some of the protagonists of the Duffy drama is all the light that is needed for psychological study. Duffy was a janitor in the city hall. Called as a witness before the Oliver grand jury in a matter in which he had no interest he was insulted by Francis J. Heney, and he promptly resented the insult with a blow. The grand jury promptly indicted him for this offense, but described it in the indictment as perjury for the reason, it is supposed, that battery is only a misdemeanor. Nobody ever thought of bringing Duffy to trial, but the indictment has been hanging over him through the years. When District Attorney Fickert entered upon his official duties, true to his pledge to investigate all cases and to ask for the dismissal of those that were obviously without merit, he made inquiries about the obscure Mr. Duffy. He wrote for information to his predecessor and to two of Mr. Langdon's deputies, and elicited the information that there was no case against Duffy. Mr. Fickert learned that Duffy was indicted merely for the gratification of a passing whim. He also learned that Duffy's attorney, Charles Fialah, had been trying for months to have the case set for trial or dismissed, but in vain, the case being on Judge Lawlor's calendar. Of course everybody familiar with the designs of that particular tribunal knows that Duffy has been denied his constitutional right of trial for the purpose of passing the buck up to the Supreme Court. Judge Lawlor is harboring the grotesque delusion that there is a possibility of his being elected to that court, and the supposition is that if he justifies himself by a verdict of acquittal, he will be elected. The Oliver grand jury would be greatly concerned. Of course Lawlor hopes to embarrass the court by imposing on it the alternative of following the law and getting abused or ignoring the law and convicting the old graft prosecution cabal.—Town Talk.

A Real
Tragedy

Miss Philomena Burt has not only her home, but her reputation in the fire that started Anthony Heights early Monday morning. Miss Barnes and her family had gone to Burlingame for the week-end and left everything at home, not dreaming that they would find ashes where their home once stood. She is engaged to Henry B. Blood, son of a prominent San Francisco lawyer, known to his classmates, for some unknown reason, by the euphemistic appellation of "Gibbald." A very brilliant fellow, and popular in his Stanford days, he met and wooed Philomena at a "frat" dance, and is now completing his education at a law school in order to follow in the footsteps of his father. The college romance ended in an engagement and for two years Miss Barnes, who, by the way, is a very beautiful girl, has been making her tressourea. All her friends pronounced it the most beautiful and complete tressourea they had ever gazed upon, and the pity of it is that not a shred of lace or lingerie was saved. The only occupant of the residence at the time of the fire was a feeble old uncle, who barely escaped with his life. And, of course, uncles never think of burial outfits unless they are called upon to contribute. Had he made the effort, however, it would have been of no avail. Not an article of furniture or wearing apparel was saved. The Barnes belong to a prominent San Francisco family. The late "Billy" Burns, one-time district attorney, was a cousin. They are closely connected with other well known San Franciscans.—The Wasp.

The Ruler of
The Czar

That "Czar Nicholas rules the Russians and a monk rules Czar Nicholas" is a remark which may be heard at the Russia of present. Not since the death of John of Croisade had the Czar an educated favorite among the clergy. The monk Theophilus was discovered in a Moscow monastery by Grand Duke Constantin. Healed with the monk's conversation the grand duke called him to the Czar's attention and ever since nobody has been closer to the imperial person. He has the right of accession to the imperial person at any time, a privilege only granted to members of the royal family and cabinet ministers. He is a daily visitor at the palace and is credited with enormous influence. Hence all seekers after patronage cultivate him and he is said to be growing wealthy on account of the gifts he receives. It is expected that the Czar will soon make him a bishop.—Town Talk.

Santa Barbara

Lord and Lady Hadfield, with their nine fine rooms at the Pitter Hotel and their retinue of servants, have made the local aristocracy sit up and take notice. The thrills that run up and down the spine of a climber who is gazing over a live lion are only equaled by those of a debutante trying to keep from stumbling over her train at a royal reception. Lady Hadfield has made a hurried trip to Chicago, and will return in a few weeks to rejoin her husband, who meantime remains at the Pitter. The Santa Barbarians are filling one another with bated breath that it is not unlikely that the titled visitors may take root there, as he is charmed with the climate.—The Wasp.

Belated Tribute to Lucky Baldwin

There is no use—you have to hand it to the late Lucky Baldwin. Dying to the strains of passionate music, it is becoming more and more evident that he lived to the waltz-time of lovely woman. Very few days another of his hitherto unknown daughters turns up, proud to claim him as a father—now that he is no longer alive. The consideration that showed the old gentleman in waiting till after he was dead is nothing less than remarkable. Never could we hope for such an alleviating circumstance in our case. On the contrary, the lady would probably get up on some homing dove to a printing press and holler. But Lucky seems to have had a way with him. If it had been known that he would have written his "Toasts to the Ladies" differently, he would have probably left out that line, "There is times when you think that you mightn't." It did not apply to Baldwin. But behind his daughters, beautiful and demure, proudest one by one toward us. Is there any and to them, any definite climax of loveliness when we can rest assured that no more will appear? How far did Lucky go anyway—always, we would judge, as far as he could. As his past reveals itself in tripping, skittered daintiness, how dear must the memory of the old boy come to the soul and doctrine of Colonel Roosevelt. How few have done so much for the race—ah, few, indeed. And few will go down to posterity through so many channels. Lucky, lucky, lucky Baldwin. East, west, north and south, it was all the same. From Brookline, Mass., comes pretty seventeen-year-old Beatrice Turnbull. She is Baldwin's daughter, she declares—beyond the shadow of a doubt. As her mother endorses the statement, very possibly she is right. In good truth, with Lucky the man in the case, we do not see how under any circumstances she could be wrong. It is her purpose to prove herself and claim part of the estate. But with so many other daughters bound to come impetuously forth for the same purpose sooner or later, was it really worth while for the young lady to reveal herself to Puritan Massachusetts, where the good die young. However, it is something to be a Baldwin. But if the Baldwin estate were divided among all the children—well, we imagine it would amount to about a horsehair fork each. Here is a testimonial of Frank J. Murphy on the subject. The other day Murphy was walking down street with a friend, when a very lovely and richly dressed young lady passed. The young fellow accompanying the lawyer gazed at her admiration.

Will a Negro
Succeed Stanton?

Is the Honorable Philby Stanton, the man who got a wire from Roosevelt, going to be succeeded in the assembly by a gentleman of color? Is the seal which Los Angeles' favorite son received in order to do battle for the governorship to be filled by a racial brother of Jack Johnson? That is the question which is agitating the southland from San Pedro to Mount Lowe and from Sausalito to Pomona Junction. George Chivis of Los Angeles is responsible for this question. George Chivis is a son of Ham; also he is a candidate for the assembly in Stanton's district. A man of influence in his district, and elsewhere is George Chivis. By profession he is what is known as a "special car porter" and of this district there are only twenty in the United States. His leisure hours George Chivis devotes to literature, for he is the editor of "The Railway Porters' and Waiters' Magazine." That the catalogue of his excellences may not be incomplete, let me add that sartorially, torsionally and in the matter of diamonds George Chivis is always up to, if not a little beyond, the mark of gentlemanly distinction. I have heard him referred to as "some nigger," but I disclaim so vulgar a phrase. As to Chivis' chance of success, it is not to be despised. Out of a total of 5000 Republican voters in his district 2000 are of his color and previous condition of servitude. It is not premature for the other Los Angeles assemblymen to speculate on who will be sent mate to George Chivis.—Town Talk.

A Tribute to
Frank Bacon

Local theater-goers who for years have enjoyed the work of Frank Bacon at the Alcazar and elsewhere will rejoice to learn that he has made a great hit in the line role of the druggist, in the Chicago production of "The Fortune Hunter." Johnson Briscoe, writing in one of the August magazines of the men and women who have made personal hits during the past season, has this to say of our old friend: "During a recent visit to Chicago I had many people ask me, 'Who is Frank Bacon?' and it seemed a surprising thing that an actor who for twenty-five years' experience should be so little known. However, this is merely a local condition, with specific reference to the East, for there is no actor better known than Bacon on the Pacific Coast. For over twenty and more years he has confined his talents exclusively to that portion of the map, chiefly to the stock companies of San Francisco, and though he has had frequent overtures to venture upon Eastern soil, he has always remained steadfast to the Golden Gate. But now that 'The Fortune Hunter' has brought him as far east as Chicago, mayhap New Yorker will yet become conversant with the finished, ripe art of Frank Bacon."

Having an Idyllic Honeymoon

Were young Mr. Roosevelt the son of an emperor, and the aristocracy of California his submissive subjects, they could not crane their necks more eagerly at sight of the young man and his bride. There are some very wealthy foreigners at Santa Barbara, and this homage of gawking curiosity which the provincial aristocracy pays to the quiet young chap who is going to take a subordinate position in a carpet house in San Francisco causes them to lift their eyebrows in amazement. The Kaiser is decidedly a big man around Berlin or Potsdam, or even in Paris or London, but he could not excite more interest in the crowds there than modest Mr. Roosevelt does in Santa Barbara. In San Francisco there has been a veritable tug-of-war over the boy. Burlingame wanted him very badly. All the fashionable places down towards San Jose would like to have captured him as a resident commander, but I hear that he is booked for Monte Carlo. He will not even go to exclusive Roses, but will reside at San Anselmo, which is on the fringe of the socially exclusive belt. If young Mr. Roosevelt inherits the literary talents of his father he should write a book on "American Snobs," in the light of his experience as a target for rubber-necks. It would be the literary hit of the century. While Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt have been supposed to be passing their honeymoon quietly at their cottage at Miramar, a suburb of Montevideo, and within easy driving distance of Santa Barbara, the son of the ex-President and his pretty bride have been strolling through the almost inaccessible fastnesses of the Santa Ynez mountains or wading the Santa Ynez river in quest of the elusive trout. The Roosevelts are the guests of Stewart Edward White, author of "The Plumed Trail" and other stories of the out-of-door world. Mrs. White makes the fourth member of the camping party. Some Japanese servants make life in the woods and on the mountains more comfortable than it otherwise might be. This trip to the Santa Ynez is one of the finest and wildest in California, and has been doubly delightful to the newly married couple, as they can rely on being five minutes in the day safe from camera flashes and preposterous women interviewers loaded with questions suitable for after-dinner discourse in a lunatic asylum.—The Wasp.

San Francisco's
Social Ulcer

With already two tenderloins to its credit, San Francisco is developing another. This is situated on Howard street between Third and Fourth, and consists of several low-class saloons, ranged in a row like a row of teeth. The place is a social ulcer, with a dance hall and a gambling parlor in connection. The saloons, masculine and the saloons, little better, certainly not up to the average of those on Pacific street. Both males and females are always in a maudlin or half-maundlin state, that is, in the manner of their existence. And the saloons themselves, bursting in uncleanness, reek, as it were, with the odor of their "drunks." Beyond the bartender, usually an individual of a Gila Monster aspect, one never sees a proprietor in any of these places. His name blazes custom in the place of an electric sign outside, but in the flesh he is never apparent—unless, maybe, he is one of the "bums." Such could be the only excuse for him. As for the civic authorities who grant licenses to these "dives," there is no excuse at all. While the whole quarter is doubtful, perhaps, there is no need that I should come to a head in such cancerous spots of vice and law-breaking. Moreover, the cancer is extending itself. Very soon it will have eaten its way to Fourth street. Our Police Commissioners are the responsible physicians in charge, but it would seem that they prefer to appear unconscious of the evil. Housed in cozy, clean quarters north of Market street, and smiling in the pomp of their officialdom, what are they going to do about it? Public opinion has required you to deny the granting of further saloon licenses, gentlemen; it also requires you to close the Howard street "dives."—News Letter.

A Mexican
Monte Carlo

Editor McMullin of the San Diego Union was at the Press Club the other day renewing old acquaintances. It is not so many years since McMullin took his part in the local newspaper game, but most of his old conferees have disappeared to other fields, to other occupations or to other worlds. Not many of them have been so successful as McMullin, who stands high in the confidence of John D. Spreckels and edits a good live newspaper in one of the most habitable places in the world. McMullin says that the rumor of the establishment of a fine Juanita of a great gambling resort crops up persistently, despite the vigorous denials of all those who are supposed to be connected with the proposition. He says that the backers of the scheme are supposed to be Los Angeles men, who would be willing to accept the conditions imposed upon their enterprise by the Mexican government. I take this to mean that they would submit to a liberal "squeeze." The San Diego Union railroad, which is one of the Spreckels enterprises, is partially built now and would enhance the value of Tia Juana as the site of a Monte Carlo, for the line crosses the American boundary in search of easy grades and passes through the little Mexican town. I reminded McMullin that when it was proposed to build a race track at Tia Juana after the state legislature had prohibited race-track gambling the project was quashed by its opponents, who appealed to the Mexican government. He replied that the same result might or might not be obtained today, but reminded me that President Diaz cannot live much longer and that when he dies there will be a great change in Mexico.—Town Talk.

Edwards Davis
No Daniel

Edwards Davis, who is distilling with Wilde epigrams at the Orpheum, once missed an excellent opportunity for widespread publicity. As Davis is usually to the fore when such opportunities present themselves the story is worth recalling. It was at the time of the old Haight Street Chutes when Aggie and her lions furnished thrills to the groundlings. The management thought it would be a great drawing card if a wedding could be held in the lions' cage, so an impetuous couple was found—Heaven knows where—who were willing to be spilled within reach of the on's jaws. Then an unexpected difficulty presented itself. Where could a clergyman be found to do the splicing? His knotty problem was dismissed when the press representative of the Chutes belittled him of the Reverend Edwards Davis, Oakland's sensational pulpit-pounder. The Reverend Davis was approached, offered a tempting honorarium and agreed to perform the ceremony with the gaping lions within the cage and the gaping multitude without. But when the great night came and Davis saw those lions stalking up and down the cage and heard their terrific roars, he changed his mind. The curtain was about to go up on the wedding ceremony when Davis approached the stage manager and with his best bow said: "Sir, I regret to say that I have changed my mind for two reasons. In the first place I am No Daniel, and in the second place the age of miracles is past."—Town Talk.

Absurd Stories About
The Martin Family

An Eastern weekly prints a very absurd and amusing account of the economies practiced by the Peter Martin while in the role of doing little housekeeping in the title of Mrs. Eleanor Martin's home. The background is painted in with sweeping strokes—to the left a little kitchenette neatly fitted up with a sink and stove, where Mrs. Martin broils a chop when there are no visitors to dine out to the right a tiny dining-room, where Mrs. Peter, slightly flushed from the unwelcome exertion of fighting the alcohol lamp under the coffee pot, resignedly helps herself to the sugar as a saccharine compromise with skimpy life in the wild West. Nothing could be further from the truth, and instead of a true picture, the scene is a comic vaudeville. Mrs. Eleanor Martin reserves the entire top floor of her mansion for the convenience of her sons. The Walter Martins and the Downey Harveys each have an apartment which they may use when they run up to town. Four rooms are always put in exquisite readiness for the Peter Martins when they signify their intention of coming out here, and moreover, Mrs. Eleanor Martin, who is very proud, always increases her staff of servants for their benefit. It is mid-summer, but June is gone, but July has stepped into her place.

July has a thousand beauties—
The blue of the cloudless sky,
The bloom of a world of roses,
The glint of the butterfly,
The light of a prisoned sunbeam,
In the fountain's sparkling dome,
The green of the boundless forest.

Also other things, a thousand things, the crown of the maple trees, the song of the thrush and robin, a hundred brooks rippling merrily under rustic bridges, the lake-side's soft susurs, the whispering grass and clover; a thousand perfumes, the tang of the wild grapevine, the subtle scent of the alders, the dew of the fresh-turned loam. Then the pictures painted by the master-artist, the sunrises, the sunsets, the harvest moons, the wonderful clear nights of stars, other nights when the moon at her full is lighting all the lake with silver.

And that is quite as beautiful a picture as Lovell gave us when he wrote that oft quoted poem beginning:
"Oh, what is so rare as a day in June!"

PEOPLE RETURN FROM RESORTS.

People who have gone to nearby resorts are beginning to return to town, and our main streets are beginning to lose their deserted appearance. But those who have wandered far afield this year are still away, and instead of the familiar presence, there comes many messages to us from far over the seas.

One characteristic letter began "On board Billy the Grocer", it took a few minutes to realize that the writer meant "On board Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse." Americans will have their little jokes on royalty when they have the chance. A bright matron now abroad writes:

"Let us be devoutly thankful for one thing—the passing of the white glove. You never see any white gloves in Paris; they are in tones of gray, or of deep cream, but never white. A white glove is a most distressing sight, when it is not perfectly immaculate, and in its later days the trace of gasoline clings to it still! And everywhere you see women wearing orchids, real or artificial, and no woman with any pretension to good taste would, in Paris, wear bracelets over gloves." And these are just a few little hints which each of us may adopt for her own personal guidance.

Miss Harriet Alexander, the popular daughter of Mrs. C. O. Alexander, is now in Paris, after spending some delightful weeks in London, where he was the guest of Mrs. Reginald Brooke. Miss Alexander made an interesting tour of Great Britain and Ireland, and spent some very happy days in Scotland with friends. The Alexanders lived so long in Oakland, that they have many friends here interested in the success of Miss Alexander, who was one of the popular debutantes of last season.

Mr. and Mrs. Truxtun Beale (Marie Beale) are in Paris, and they were among the guests at a large dinner which Mr. and Mrs. Frank Carolan gave their friends at the historic Hotel d'Or.

WINTER IN HIDING ALL OVER EUROPE.

But the weather abroad beggars all description this year. "The weather" is always a favorite topic of discussion, and the Californians abroad this summer have sighed many times for the wonderful climate of their beautiful Golden West.

Perhaps, after all, there are compensations in staying at home, for a London letter has the following paragraph:

"The summer is becoming a myth here so far as its connection with sunshine goes. Each year gets steadily worse than the last."

"This week has been dreadful. It is an exaggeration to say that not during an hour in the whole week has the sun been seen. Leadon skies, cold winds, and torrents of rain sum up the weather conditions here, and, to say the least, it gets a trifle boring to have continuously to walk about with an umbrella and an overcoat, to say nothing of the winter clothing it is necessary to wear in order to prevent catching one's death of cold."

And a letter from Paris tells the same story.

"The temperature is so low generally that men have found overcoats necessary and women are wearing furs. From all the so-called summer resorts comes the same plaintive story, so that Americans in Paris are bearing up under their misfortunes as cheerfully as possible."

AMERICANS BIG SPENDERS.

In London, the Americans continue to be the great spenders of the summer, and they go along in a happy, optimistic fashion, enjoying themselves as best they may, quite regardless of the weather. A recent writer says of the American invasion:

"Withal it has had no effect on the American invasion in London, which, on all hands, is admitted to be the greatest on record. It is really remarkable—this steady influx of Americans—and what London would do without them goodness only knows; without doubt they are the principal mainstay of the theaters and music halls.

"Go to any of the large department stores, the only persons spending money seem to be Americans—while all the best hotels are simply full with them, hundreds being turned away, to get in anywhere they can."

PARIS ALMOST DESERTED.

Beautiful Paris this year has been comparatively deserted, and it is really surprising to note how small is the number of Americans in the historic city this summer.

Americans have preferred the Mediterranean trip this summer, which leads them in Italy, whence they travel leisurely north to the cooler regions of the Swiss Alps, to the picturesque Rhine, and on to Munich and the Passion Play.

The American tourist has completely dominated the hotel situation in Germany.

The hotel in Unter-den-Linden, which is gradually acquiring a monopoly of American patronage in Berlin, scored a record on Wednesday of this week with a total of seventy-five fresh American arrivals out of one hundred and twenty-eight of all nationalities.

Nearly four thousand Americans arrived at Berlin hotels and boarding houses in the month of June—an altogether unprecedented figure. They were exceeded in number only by the Russians, but from the money-spending point of view the local hotelkeeper counts one Yankee tourist against half a dozen Russians.

The American season shows no sign of abating. The Passion Play, Richard Strauss, and the Balneum music festivals in Bavaria and the health resorts of Germany and Austria continue to draw record-breaking numbers of trans-Atlantic guests.

MRS. GRAHAM IN LIMELIGHT.

An American who is easily in the center of the social limelight of Europe is "Mrs. Miller Graham of California"; that is, the way she is always mentioned in Europe. For almost a year now, from Paris, from London, from many leading places of the Continent, the cablegrams have brought news of "Mrs. Miller Graham of California." She has entertained very prominent members of London's aristocratic set, and even royal y abroad. She has been the guest of "Mrs. Miller Graham of California."

And naturally Californians have been asking themselves in the past months, "Who is Mrs. Graham of our own State?"

We all know that artists go abroad, succeed there, and come back to us, when we promptly accord them the recognition they ought to have had from us first of all. It is the same way with writers, when England sets a seal upon their work, they have achieved greatness among their fellow Americans. We all now know how easy it is to arrive in the very heart of New York's social set, to one goes there by way of London and the continent. And Mrs. Graham has been wise in her day and generation. She has climbed the ladder of social prestige, in the background of the old world. And she has grown to dizzy heights. Meantime on the coast, the question has been going the rounds: "Who is Mrs. Graham of California?"

Among the many answers to the question is perhaps the most interesting. The Miller Gramhams live in Santa Barbara, where they have a most picturesque and very artistic home. Some months ago Mr. Graham made a great deal of money in oil, and Mrs. Graham was able to realize a long cherished wish to go abroad. She is a very cultured woman, very bright and most fascinating, with a charm of manner which seems to be the rightful inheritance of so many California women. She knows how to entertain, and among her guests have been many people well known in the smart sets of the great European centers.

"Mrs. Graham of California" is now in London, where she has taken a house for the season; of her recent entertainment the cable brings the following details:

"Mrs. Miller Graham of California gave her first big party on Wednesday night at her house in Grosvenor Square. The entertainers were Pavlowa and Mordkin, the famous Russian dancers, who are this year in London just now, and whose fees are enormous. Anna Pavlowa did some wonderful new dances and was altogether delightful.

"Among the guests was Lady Paget, who brought some friends, including Lord Kintore. Others present were Priscilla, Lady Annesley; Lord and Lady Knarborough, the Danish Minister, Lord Grimthorpe, Ogden Reid, and William Phillips of the American Embassy. Lady Ross, Mrs. Hope Vere, Mrs. Rudolph Sprockels and Francis Carolan of San Francisco, Sheldon Cosby, Miss Hoyt, Mrs. de Grasse Fox, Moncure Robinson, Robin Grey, and Crichton Webb. A few among these who came in after dinner were Lady Wilton, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Barag, Mr. and Mrs. Glasgow, and Mrs. Chauncey, a wonder of smartness in a clinging dress without a fold.

"The house is a lovely one. There are some fine tapestries in the reception rooms, and the oral display everywhere was quite gorgeous. There were plenty of pretty women in the smartest of toilets and a goodly show of jewels."

It might be remarked in passing that Pavlowa is all the rage in Europe; such wonderful dancing has never been known there. The Russian dancer is the rage in Europe, and she is the most noted artist in her line of modern times.

EVERSONS IN SOUTHERN EUROPE.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Everson and their daughters have gone to Southern Europe, and recent letters from them were dated at Venice.

Mr. Everson after his many years of work at a business desk is greatly enjoying his long vacation abroad. The other members of the family have been to Europe several times before, so they know how to plan an itinerary full of interest and of picturesque charm.

DELIGHTFUL SUMMER DAYS.

There have rarely been such delightful summer days as are greeting the visitors to Santa Barbara this year. Mrs. Rosenfeld and Miss Nicholson are, as usual, spending the month of July at the Potter. They spend June at Boulder Creek, the mid-summer in the south, and late in the autumn they go again to the Santa Cruz mountains.

Mrs. Requa returned from Santa Barbara last week, having enjoyed a delightful month at the seashore. She greatly enjoyed the surf bathing on the fine Santa Barbara beach, and many of her friends were in the south this summer, lending an additional interest to the holiday time.

Mrs. Requa had a picturesque cottage at Miramar, and General and Mrs. Oscar Long and their daughters are spending the month of July there.

BELLS SPEND TIME IN SOUTH.

Mr. and Mrs. Harmon Bell have spent some weeks in Santa Barbara this summer, and they have had with them Mr. and Mrs. Traylor Bell and their son. They are an ideal family party, and they have enjoyed a summer full of interest. They have their own motor car, in which they have enjoyed expeditions along to the roads, and they have also their own yacht and trips in Santa Barbara harbor are full of delightful possibilities.

TAHOE RESORTS AT THEIR BEST.

The Lake Tahoe resorts are at their best in the late July days and in August, for then warm weather may be expected in the high Sierras.

Among the recent arrivals at Tahoe Tavern are Mrs. Frank Woodward and her three children, who expect to remain at Tahoe until the late autumn. Mr. Woodward will spend some time with his family at the lake. The Woodward family have closed their home in Berkeley for the summer, and the early part of the season they spent at their country place in the lower Sierras. Whether they stay in town or country, the Woodward home represents hospitality in its truest sense, and guests find a welcome which for the time at least, makes life brighter and better worth while.

All through the high Sierras, the many summer houses are now open, and each one has its full number of guests.

At Tahoe, Mrs. Mark Requa has a cottage and among her recent guests have been her two sisters, Miss Lucy and Miss Margaret Herrick. Mrs. Frederick Kohl has opened her country home "Idlewild," on Lake Tahoe, and she will have as her guest, Mrs. Kohl senior. "Idlewild" is the largest country place on the Tahoe banks and Mrs. Kohl has the largest steam yacht on the lake, which adds to the many amusements she plans for her guests.

A number of Oakland people have been this year at Castle Crag, and among those who staid a month at that beautiful resort in the heart of the Sierras are Mrs. Palmanteer, the Misses Palmanteer, Mrs. Thomas Crelin, Mrs. Robert Fitzgerald and her children.

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Calhoun and Miss Martha Calhoun have been at Shasta Springs, and have enjoyed motor trips on the wonderful roads which have recently made the Sierras more accessible. Not far from Castle Crag, on the banks of the McCloud River, is "Fortune-Teller's Camp," the country place of the Thomas H. Williams. Mr. and Mrs. Williams have been entertaining "John Muir," the celebrated naturalist, for whom the great "Muir Glacier" in Alaska was named, and whose name was given to the famous woods of Mariposa county, the "Muir woods," one of the most picturesque places about the bay.

Mr. and Mrs. Williams are expecting as their guests in the later July days, the Thomas Bishops of San Francisco, and the Guy Barhams of Los Angeles.

Doctor and Mrs. Herbert Moffitt have been spending part of the summer in their delightful country home on the shores of Tahoe, and they have recently had as their guests Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hays Smith. The latter was Mrs. Sue Noll of Stockton, who has many friends here, since her school days were passed at the Sacred Heart convent in this city.

MRS. HEARST ON VACATION.

Mrs. Hearst went to beautiful "Wynton" last week, and is established there for a summer rest. She was joined at "Wynton" by the Edward Clarks of New York and by Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Flint (Anne Apperson) of New Haven.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Clark, Maurice Clark and Daphne Thomson leave for "Wynton" this week and will be Mrs. Hearst's guests at this loveliest and most picturesque of California country homes.

ENJOY DAYS AT DEL MONTE.

Among the guests at Del Monte last week were Mr. and Mrs. Edson Adams and their daughters, who motored to that famous resort. Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Brown and Miss Florine Brown were also at Del Monte, and the Browns and Edson Adams enjoyed a delightful day's outing in a picnic trip to Pebble Beach.

A large tea on Tuesday called out an attendance of prominent people in town on both sides of the bay.

Mrs. Webster Jones was the hostess and she entertained in honor of Mrs. Christian Miller, the charming young bride who has come from Virginia to make her home among her husband's friends.

The tea was given at Mrs. Jones' very picturesque country place in San Rafael and was largely attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Christian Miller are spending the summer in San Rafael, where Mr. Miller has prepared a charming bungalow for his bride.

DE LAVEAGAS ON AUTO TOUR.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward de Laveaga have started north on a motor trip, and have planned to make delightful stops at points of interest on the way. They were recently at Sissons. Mr. and Mrs. de Laveaga (Delight Woodbury) are enthusiastic automobilists and they plan long trips each summer. They have crossed in their motor car the California and Oregon mountain ranges and their destination on this trip is to be Seattle.

The de Laveagas have been spending a part of the summer at their country place, "Benvenue," in Contra Costa county, and Mrs. de Laveaga had as her guest for the month of June her sister, Mrs. Harrie Taylor, formerly Ruth Woodbury.

SOCIETY COMING HOME AGAIN.

It begins to be apparent that many people are returning to town for the Macdonough Theater on Wednesday afternoon showed a crowded audience to welcome Margaret Anglin in "The Awakening of Helen Ritchie."

Those of us who have watched Mrs. Deland's good literary work live always been interested in her "Old Chester Tales," reminiscent as they were of that delightfully old-fashioned book, "Cranford."

And many of the stories owed their success to that dear, delightful personage, "Doctor Lavender," one of the most charming characters in modern literature. So it is not to be wondered at that when Mrs. Deland assayed her first long book, Doctor Lavender should be a central figure of interest.

The book called out an enormous amount of criticism, just as the problem book, or the problem play always does, but it made a great deal of money for its author, Mrs. De and.

"And a little child shall lead them," that is the motif of the book, and the little child wove himself into the hearts of the public, and the book as well as the play has been a great success.

A California girl, Miss Thompson of San Francisco, dramatized the play and her work has received the greatest praise from Eastern critics.

Among the well known people in the audience at the Wednesday matinee were:

Mrs. Isaac Requa	Miss Laura Sanborn
Miss Florence	Miss Norma Castle
Miss Egan	Mrs. Harry Hays
Mrs. Lillian Everts	Miss Hazel Tal-
Mr. Alender	manter
Mrs. Gordon Stoop	Miss Ethel Palmant-

MILL VALLEY BECOMES POPULAR.

Mill Valley has been very popular this year as a place for an ideal summer holiday. Miss Louise and Miss Emma Mahony are spending the summer there, having taken one of the Marsh cottages on one of the hills overlooking the valley. The Edwards, with their daughter, Miss Eselle Hill, are spending the entire summer at Mill Valley.

The J. M. Costigans have an exceedingly attractive country place in Mill Valley, just across the creek from Bathedale, and Mrs. Costigan entertains many guests each year. The Barry Chickering were at Mill Valley, but have gone to Lake Tahoe for a few days.

The Misses Margaret and Helen have been the guests of friends at Mill Valley, and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Brown (Florence Sharon) are among those who find restful summer days in the picturesque surroundings of Mill Valley.

One hears that the Bathedale dunes have been exceedingly popular this year, and the girls fortunate enough to be present have scored exceedingly good times.

LAN HOLIDAY IN THE ORIENT.

Dr. and Mrs. Wellby are among those who are planning a holiday trip very far afield. They are to sail for the Orient in the near future, and they will spend the autumn in wanderings in Japan.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Moran will leave for the East on Monday, and they are planning to spend the rest of the summer and part of the autumn on the Atlantic Coast.

Doctor and Mrs. Erwin Brinckerhoff and their daughter, Miss Ethel, returned to town last week after a delightful vacation spent at Slippery Ford, a charming and most picturesque place on the banks of the American River. Other Oakland people were there also and one hears of interesting drives, of unique motor trips and of lovely walks through leafy woods.

The Brinckerhoffs have an ideal home on El Cerrito avenue, Piedmont, and it is the center for many delightful reunions of friends.

WATERHOUSES OFF FOR HONOLULU.

Mrs. John Waterhouse (Martha Alexander) and her two daughters, Patricia and Elizabeth Waterhouse, were among the passengers sailing this week in the Manchuria for Honolulu. Mrs. Waterhouse has spent some pleasant weeks in Oakland, where she was the guest of her mother, Mrs. S. T. Alexander, at the Alexander family home here.

She was also the guest of her brother, Wallace Alexander, at the latter's country place at Los Gatos.

YOSEMITE GREAT DRAWING CARD.

Yosemite is the great drawing card this year, and it seems now that it will be on the list for a visit each year by those who have learned to love it. Yosemite is now classed as one of the great natural wonders of the world, ranking in America with Niagara Falls and Yellowstone Park. People go to Yosemite for the first time to see this wonderful valley, concerning which so much has been written. They take the various trails, go over to Wawona, for a visit to the famous Big Trees, and then come home impressed and armed with the wonderful dignity, the stupendous strength of the great rock-bound valley, with its Sentinel Rock, its Cathedral Spires and its majestic El Capitan. But people invariably want to go back again and the second time it is to linger long, to take up one's abode for a time in the heart of the most wonderful valley in the whole world.

The trip is an easy one now for dwellers about the bay, just a matter of twelve hours, till the big stage brings one to Camp Ahwah, or to the hotel.

So whatever itinerary may be arranged for one's summer outing, for many people it must hereafter include an annual visit to Yosemite Valley.

Among those who have recently returned from Yosemite are Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Fenwick (Agnes Duff), Mr. and Mrs. Lester Herrick Mr. and Mrs. Louis Mac Dormot, Miss Norma Castle, Miss Laura Sanborn, Ambrose Bierce, Mrs. Atherton, Mr. and Mrs. George Sterling, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Porter Bishop, Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Wheeler, and the Misses Wheeler.

LUND SUMMER IN THE SOUTH.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lund (Mila Lally) are at Santa Barbara, where they are spending some weeks of the summer. Mrs. Lund drives her own motor car, and one hears that she was deeply distressed over a recent accident in which a little girl was very seriously hurt, being run down by the automobile which Mrs. Lund was driving.

PICTURES IN THE MEDDLER.

Miss Genevieve Sturm, whose picture is in the Meddler today, has just returned from St. Helena, where she has been summering for the last month, and will entertain Miss Pauline Nougaret at her home in this city.

Miss Bessie Grant of Highland Park is noted among local musicians. She is the president of the Prelude Club and is much sought after socially. She was recently the maid of honor at the wedding of Miss Helen Hussey and Frederick Adams, which was celebrated June 30.

Miss Cressy Stone is one of the members of the younger set who will make her debut next winter. Meanwhile she is being entertained informally about the bay. She is a graduate of Miss Hamlin's private school.

Miss Caro Simonson is the daughter of Mrs. E. H. Simonson of Alameda and is at present attending the State University, where she is a member of the Delta Gamma sorority. She will be one of the bridesmaids at the wedding of Miss Chryssa Fraser, which will be an event of the near future.

LAKE TAHOE CLAIMS BANGS.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Bangs and their daughter, Irene Bangs, are at Tahoe, where they are spending the month of July.

Miss Bangs' engagement to Aldrich Barton was one of the important announcements of the summer and their marriage will be one of the later events of the year.

RETURNS FROM EUROPEAN TRIP.

Doctor Pauline Nusbaumer, the physician, returned last week from a vacation trip to Europe. Dr. Nusbaumer met abroad her niece, Miss Pauline Schwaer, and Miss Lena Rodington, and the trio of friends enjoyed a delightful visit to some of the leading capitals in Europe. Doctor Nusbaumer's work is well known in Oakland, and she leads the way in many lines of bacteriological research. Her work is most important and exceedingly well done.

CLUB WORK GOES ON APACE.

While vacation trips interest the larger part of the social world, club work goes on apace. All the plans which make the meetings of the coming season of interest must be formulated now, chairmen of luncheons and receptions must be appointed and leading speakers must be planned for. So the club president is an exceedingly busy woman. Oakland's one of all classes of women the movement which has been of the greatest interest concerns the playgrounds. And how wonderfully successful it has all been, and the pity of things that it was not tried long before.

At first the playgrounds were planned for the poor children, but now they are for all children, and after all, most children are democratic and if they are let alone they know very little of class distinction.

Everybody goes to the playgrounds to see the children, and all the old familiar games that seemed to have faded away into the background of the past are coming back. Out from a corner comes the chorus:

"London Bridge is falling down, falling down, falling down,
London Bridge is falling down,
My fair lady!"

And the child that is called by encircling arms is asked whether he would have a diamond palice or a gold watch. A palace sounds alluring, so he takes that.

Some very tiny girls are singing "Ring around a rosy," and "Miss Jimmy O Jones" is chasing a flying squadron quite across the yard.

Cries of "Resker" comes from Prisoner's Base, and glorious mountains are being built up in the sand boxes. And the joy of the Oakland child's heart seems to be to shoot down a great slide, and it might be added it is the despair of many mothers.

Children come to the playgrounds from all directions and it is pathetic to see the "little mothers of the poor" bringing the younger children and the baby—to play. One is so glad that there is a safe place, with fresh air in plenty, and with plenty of things with which to play.

Among those greatly interested in the work are Miss Ethel Moore and Mrs. Cora Jones, both of whom have recently returned from the East, having made a thorough study of the playground movement there. What we may do for the children is the best investment in the wide world, and the society woman of today is surely making life worth while for other women and for the children. It was Longfellow who wrote of them, not so many years ago.

"Ye are better than all the ballads
That ever were sung or said,
For ye are living poems,
And all the rest are dead."

After all, life is a great school. It would be better for most of us if there were more vacation days, and if, here and there, it might be just "play-time."

THE MEDDLER.

ARIZONANS SEEK NEW OIL FIELD

Western Part of State to Be Worked; Southern Pacific
Once Sunk Well.

GLOBE, Ariz., July 23.—Specimens of oil-bearing rock, which experts pronounce to be among the best ever found in Arizona, are being exhibited here by T. D. Morris of Safford, who is organizing a stock company to develop the country in which the oil-bearing rock was discovered. The location of the district which is to be developed has not been divulged by Morris, except that it is in Western Arizona. At the same time the location of the district is said to be accessible, and on the strength of the showing already made, he has interested a considerable amount of local capital in the new company. The oil-bearing rock was discovered by Bob Daniels, who has had much experience in oil prospecting. Springs which showed traces of oil on their waters first attracted his attention. Later outcroppings of oil-bearing rock were discovered, along with other surface indications which point to the existence of oil in large quantities. SOUTHERN PACIFIC SUNK WELL. Some twenty-five years ago the Southern Pacific Company sunk a well near the point where the apparent oil strike has been made. The well was sunk for water, not oil, at that time oil was not used for fuel in such quantities as at the present time. When oil sands were tapped in drilling the well officials of the company were very much disappointed. They attempted to drill through and case off the oil sands, but losing a string of tools in the well they abandoned the hole, and its existence was ultimately forgotten, as the slight excitement at the time of the discovery soon subsided. Morris is an expert in oil development, although he has lost a fortune

Cowboys Would Take Record From Angoras

WASHINGTON, July 23.—Four cowboys from California have undertaken on a bet to haul three Angora goats and a crippled man across the continent in a shorter time than the goats hauled the ripple from California to Washington. The Angora goat record from San Diego to Washington was 257 days. The cowboys bet they will be back in San Diego in 157 days. The cowboys and the goats arrived here today. Captain Edwards is the cripple. He pays his expenses by selling postcards.

A woman is so clever she will get mad ahead of a man she sees is going to get mad with her. He is a confident that the new-found district will develop into a paying property, and from the enthusiasm with which his proposition has been received here he will have little difficulty in financing a company to develop the property.

WOMAN FIGHTS WAY TO POLLS

Mrs. Robert J. Burdette Votes
Despite Protests of the Election Officers.

LOS ANGELES, July 23.—Mrs. Robert J. Burdette, wife of the famous preacher-humorist and very wealthy, put a practical suffragette campaign into operation yesterday when she went to the polls in Pasadena and, despite the protest of election officials, insisted on casting her vote. Pasadena was voting on a bond issue, and as a heavy property owner, subject to taxation, Mrs. Burdette opined that she had a right to vote. Accordingly she took herself to the polling place of the precinct in which Sunnycrest, her beautiful home, is located. The election officials protested mildly, but Mrs. Burdette assured them that as she had sufficient education and sufficient property to entitle her to vote she intended to cast a ballot, and she did. Mrs. Burdette is a noted club woman, a believer in woman's suffrage, although she has not been especially prominent in this line of work, and is a philanthropist. Thursday she celebrated her birthday by giving $5000 to Throop polytechnic institute and as the election day was for the purpose of voting school bonds she decided to participate.

CREW WORKING ON BARRELL

Owners Expect to Soon Know
Value of Their Property as Producer.

COALINGA, July 23.—The Barrell Oil Company is ready for the landing of its one-half-inch casing, a depth of about 2500 feet and has placed a crew of men at the works. This work will be finished in four days, when it is expected that the casing will be put down and one-half-inch casing to the oil sand will be commenced. The last drilling done in the oil sand before the management was abandoned was in 1907. It was then a steady producer will be brought in this field and thereby demonstrate that a vast territory has been discovered. The Barrell added to Coalinga territory and that the Kettleman hills district will in the future play an important part in the oil industry.

NEW RIGS BUILDING.

Several new rigs are in course of construction south of the W. K. and M. haw properties, section 20-26-8, the latest on which work has been commenced under the supervision of C. G. Wilcox in the north half of the north half. Great interest is manifested in the work, and the company has received a lot of firm among many of the old informed oil men of the Coalinga field that this territory, which is being developed, contains some of the most productive oil strata to be found. The Barrell Oil Company is now operating in this district and is making good progress. It will be one of the first to be completed, as it is down the depth of 3450 feet.

ERECTS BIG TANK.

In order more aptly to care for its production the Coalinga National Oil Company has just completed the erection of an enormous covered receiving tank. The well of the National has been making a fine record, and the company has been able to handle the production of the well since it was brought in. The tank, which is being built by the Coalinga National Oil Company, is a large cylindrical tank, 100 feet in diameter and 20 feet high. It will be used for storing the oil produced by the well. The tank is being built on a concrete foundation and will be ready for use in a few days.

HEADLIGHT CAUSE OF CAR ACCIDENT

Chauffeur, Blinded by Light, Runs Down Man in the Street.

Blinded by the flashing headlight of an East Oakland electric car G. B. Hollenbeck of 1139 East Nineteenth street, ran down Eugene Gillardin at 9:05 o'clock last night on East Fourteenth street, between Sixteenth and Seventeenth avenues, throwing him to the ground and causing painful but not serious injuries. Gillardin was taken by Hollenbeck and Special Officer Crandall to his home, 514 East Fourteenth street, where he was given medical attendance.

The City Council now has under consideration an ordinance to regulate the power of street-car headlights on account of their blinding effect. Hollenbeck, who is connected with the John Kremer Company, is not blamed for the accident, as he was unable to see with the headlight full in his eyes.

FOR YOUR HAIR

Here Are Facts We Want You to Prove at Our Risk.

Marvelous as it may seem, Rexall's Hair Tonic has grown hair on heads that were once bald. It is so true that it is understood that in none of these cases were the hair roots dead nor had the scalp taken on a glazed, shiny appearance. When the roots of the hair are entirely dead and the pores of the scalp are clogged over, we do not believe that anything can restore hair growth.

When Rexall's Hair Tonic is used as above stated, it is not strange that we have such great faith in it and that we claim it will prevent baldness when used in time. It acts scientifically, destroying the germs which are usually responsible for baldness. It penetrates to the roots of the hair, stimulating and nourishing them. It is a most pleasant toilet necessity, is delicately perfumed and will not gum nor permanently stain the hair.

We want you to get a bottle of Rexall's Hair Tonic and use it as directed. If it does not relieve scalp irritation, remove dandruff, prevent the hair from falling out and promote an increased growth of hair and in every way give entire satisfaction, simply come back and tell us and without question or formality we will hand back to you every penny you paid us for it.

We lead our endorsement to Rexall's Hair Tonic and sell it on this guarantee, because we believe it is the best hair tonic ever discovered. It comes in two sizes, prices 50 cents and $1.00. Remember you can obtain it only at the Owl Drug Co., Inc., 10th and Washington, 13th and Broadway, 15th and Sutter.

LOCATES MOTHER;
FATHER IS GONE

Little Girl Deserted by One Parent Now Loses the Other.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 23.—After searching for nearly a month for her mother, who disappeared, leaving her a slender clue to her whereabouts, little Catherine Dona, a school girl living at 1300 Laguna street, notified Captain Norman this morning that she had located her missing parent, but had now also been deserted by her father.

In company with the landlady of the house which has been occupied by the family, the girl visited police headquarters and told a pitiful tale of her alleged desertion by her parents. Her purpose in coming was to notify the police to drop the search for her mother, whom she declared had been found, but whom she would not divulge.

JOINED BY HUSBAND.

The woman with her, however, stated that it was her belief that Mrs. Jessie Dona had been joined by her husband, Julius Dona, an interpreter. She expressed her willingness to look out for the little girl for a short time in the hope that the parents would return.

Captain Norman notified the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children to make a careful investigation of the case.

Ten Thousand Aliens
Sent to Native Lands

NEW YORK, July 23.—All records in the department at Ellis Island have been broken in the last six months. More than 10,000 immigrants have been sent back in that period, while in the previous year the deportations have not exceeded 7,000 a year.

The fifteen ships sailing today carry back 40 aliens, 65 of them going on the Greek liner Patros.

One of the undesirable deported in the Minnetonka today is a young Englishman who was sentenced a year ago to the Elmira reform school for robbing a restaurant of a fashionable New York hotel.

He was paroled from Elmira on Thursday and immediately arrested by order of the Secretary of Commerce and Labor and put on the Minnetonka yesterday afternoon. He has served time in English prisons, the immigration authorities say.

Electric Smelter
Is Big Success

RIDGING, July 23.—Steel men, bankers and advertisers composed a party of twenty-one San Franciscans who visited the electric iron smelter at Hereford, on the T. & N. river, which has now been running continuously for twelve days, and is turning out twenty tons of pig iron every day at a cost of $12 a ton.

This was the first real working test the iron smelter has had after three years of experimenting. It is so perfect and satisfactory in every detail that five more plants are to be built at once.

The visiting iron and steel men were amazed at what they saw, declaring the electric smelter, of which there is not a counterpart in the country, a technical and a commercial success, and the pig iron produced of the very highest grade.

It is realized that the electric iron smelter marks the beginning of what will be in a short time, a great iron industry on the Pacific Coast.

COUNTESS TO TAKE HEART OF DEAD SPOUSE TO SPAIN
WHEN SHE CLAIMS ESTATE

Widow of Count Julian de Ovies Must Show Gruesome Proof That She Is Entitled to Land

PITTSBURG, July 23.—Accompanying a beautiful casket inlaid with pearls, containing the heart of her husband, Count Julian de Ovies, former Chilean consul at Pittsburgh Pa., Countess de Ovies will soon journey to Madrid to deposit the heart as her sovereign proof in claim of the Spanish estate of her dead husband.

The gruesome ritual is in accordance with the law of Spain, which provides that the heart of any member of the royal family, dying abroad shall be preserved after identification by the government officials of the country wherein the death occurred, the physicians attending and the Spanish consul in the country, and shall be forwarded to Madrid as proof of the death of the subject.

This was done in the case of Count de Ovies. The heart was removed from the body following the sudden death of the count at the residence of his son in Birmingham, Ala., and identified according to his Spanish sovereign's requirements and also identified by officials of the United States government sent from Washington.

When delivered in Madrid the casket will be opened with impressive ceremonies. The estate consists of thousands of acres of valuable land, on which there are twenty-four parishes and as many villages.

The Countess came to this country several years ago. He was first in New York later in Boston and Chicago and then Pittsburgh. He married Blanca McDonald of New Comersburg, Ohio, in 1891, after three years' courtship, and one child, a son, resulted from the union.

Count Julian prospered here and, previous to his death, made all arrangements to have his estate transferred to his wife in Spain.

Three months ago Count Julian and his wife visited his son, an Episcopal minister in Birmingham. The Count became ill there and died suddenly from an attack of heart trouble. His wife returned to Pittsburgh Friday and made arrangements for filing the will with the register of Allegheny county. The papers should be completed. A part of the report will be the casket containing the heart.

Goes Aboard Ship; Forgets Baby

PORTLAND, July 23.—In the excitement incident to the taking of a sea trip a young matron went on the steamship Bear at the Almsworth dock yesterday morning and forgot all about her baby, which had been left on the wharf, until the steamer was ready to cast away lines and leave down the river bound for San Francisco.

Even then the mother did not think of her child until an acquaintance asked her about it. A shriek from the mother convinced the officers of the steamer that something was wrong. After a search for the baby it was found carefully cradled in a playmate's arms.

Dr. Nelson, marine surgeon of the San Francisco and Portland steamship company, picked up the wail, rushed aboard and placed it in its mother's arms. Then the lines were cast off and the Bear swung gracefully out into the channel. The mother could be seen fondling the babe as long as the steamer remained in sight.

Woman Exonerated for Killing

SEATTLE, July 23.—Mrs. Mildred Rogers, who shot and killed Robert Emmet MacSherry, a gambler from San Francisco, with whom she had been living, Wednesday night, was exonerated by a coroner's jury yesterday and will not be prosecuted.

When she fell MacSherry had a pistol in his hand and the woman swore that she fired in self-defense.

MacSherry was a brother of Frank MacSherry, the San Quentin convict, who testified in the recent trial of former Police Commissioner Flannery of San Francisco.

The dead man brought suit here last May against Ethel Mabel MacSherry, whom he married in Sacramento December 15, 1907. The case was called for trial, but MacSherry was in the morgue and the case was stricken from the calendar.

Brand Women Smokers Bad

PITTSBURG, July 23.—The report that Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, formerly Miss Alice Roosevelt, smokes cigarettes caused a lively discussion yesterday among well-known Pittsburgh club women at a meeting of the Pittsburgh playground association flower committee.

"I look upon a woman who smokes her cigarettes as one who blanches her hair with suspicion," was the statement of Mrs. J. H. Armstrong.

Mrs. Mabelle G. Roberts and Mrs. George Kramer took leading parts in the discussion, which was held with great interest by the women present, among them being members of the following organizations:

Womankind, Women's Club of Pittsburgh, Sorosis, Daughters of the American Revolution, Daughters of 1812, Daughters of Pioneers and the Women's Southern Society.

"The higher civilization a woman holds the more womanly she should be," asserted Mrs. Roberts, and a number of others said they thought Mrs. Longworth ought to be ashamed of herself for setting such an example to the young women of the land.

Mabel admitted a member of the Womankind society said: "Any woman has a right to smoke cigarettes if she wants to, as long as she does not tread on any one else's toes."

The spirited discussion was ended rather abruptly when a prominent D. A. C. member rose and said:

"We haven't ruffled up our feathers simply because Mrs. Longworth smokes cigarettes. Why, 100 years ago our great grandmothers sat with their husbands and smoked corn-cob pipes!"

Girl Accidentally Kills Youth

WASHINGTON, July 23.—Benjamin T. Smith, young son of Addison T. Smith, secretary to Senator Heyburn of Idaho, was accidentally shot and killed yesterday at Mount Holly, Va., by a young woman whose identity is unknown.

Young Smith, in company with his brother and the son of Lieutenant Dinger, United States navy, were on their vacation. The boys, armed with rifles, were standing on a dock near Mount Holly when a party of young women in a launch came by. The boys chatted with the girls after they had disembarked and one of the girls laughingly took Smith's rifle from him. While handling it the weapon was discharged and Smith was shot in the temple.

The boy's body was brought here tonight and his father, en route to Boise, Idaho, was intercepted by telegraph at Ohio.

Eloping Girl Wants Clothes

NEW YORK, July 23.—Mabel Bryington, who has been Mrs. George Hogan ever since last Monday, had her father, Joseph Bryington, a bookkeeper living in Brooklyn, in the Gates Avenue Police Court, that borough, yesterday under a summons designed to force him to give her possession of her clothing.

The young bride, who is 19 years old and extremely pretty, provided to Magistrate Kemper that she herself had purchased the clothing out of money earned by her and that her father was holding it illegally. The magistrate ordered papa Bryington to deliver the clothing to his daughter.

Mabel admitted to Magistrate Kemper that she eloped on Sunday and married on Monday against her father's will. She declared also that her father had attempted to hold her a prisoner in his home and that she had outwitted him by picking the lock last Sunday morning when he was reading his Bible and escaped with only what clothing she could gather at a moment's notice and throw into a suitcase.

Elope, and Now There's a Mixup

LOS ANGELES, July 23.—Because the California divorce laws prohibit people who rid themselves of matrimonial mistresses in this state from marrying again until a year has elapsed, pretty Miss Hazel Hudson went to Yuma, Arizona, Thursday and married Grover Knowlton. The young couple then returned to Los Angeles and came back to Los Angeles yesterday to retrieve their blessing.

Of course, they got it, but just wait until papa Knowlton hears of it. Grover Knowlton is the son of E. W. Knowlton of Chicago, a millioaire manufacturer of hair tonic, owing also a beautiful home in Pasadena. Knowlton senior has said to his son that he has entertained very strict ideas concerning whom and when his son should marry.

The thought of what the young man's father might say, however, is not likely to cause as much anxiety as the tangled state in which the newly wedded pair find themselves as the result of setting at defiance the divorce laws. As Mrs. Hudson was married while quite young to a man who did not get along and finally separated, she suing for and obtaining an involuntary decree of divorce on March 10 last. The law says that a year must elapse before a divorce becomes absolute through the granting of a final decree. Moreover, it specifically provides against marriage in another state as a means of evading the law of this state.

Young Knowlton is connected with the Sunset Telephone Company in this city, his father being a heavy stockholder in the company.

Dancing Girl Sues Merchant

PATERSON, N. J., July 23.—Christian J. Melster, a Paterson business man, also an alderman and married, has been made defendant in a suit for breach of promise $15,000, brought by Mlle. Milla de Leon, who has for several years been known as a dancer. The defendant is a leader in Republican politics in Passaic county.

He met the dancer last April while she was playing in "The High School Burlesques." He admits that he was friendly with her, and she had all her wedding clothes made before she learned he was already married and had a family. He replies that the ring he had given her was not an engagement ring—simply a friendship ring.

The dancer has for several years been known as "the girl in blue" and was once arrested for pitching garters from the stage in the audience.

unusual collections made during the year.

This unprecedented action will be taken if the recommendations which Governor A. O. Eberhart is reported to be considering are followed.

At present the treasury of the state is groaning under the burden of a surplus which has never been duplicated. On October 1 there will be nearly $4,000,000 in the treasury.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—The successful results of the experiments conducted by Glenn H. Curtiss, the aviator, less than a month ago, when in flights over Lake Keuka at Hammondsport, N. Y., he hit a moving battleship fifteen times with a twenty-two shot, impressed the authorities here very deeply. The outcome was that immediately some secret experiments were made by officials.

These official experiments were carried out jointly by officers of the War and Navy Departments. The results have just been communicated to the departments.

AIR NAVIES SURE.

They show that there is no firearm in existence which can cope with the perfected aerial torpedo craft and the officers express the opinion that such aircraft will become adjuncts to the world's navies within five years.

Results of the official experiments taken in conjunction with the fact that Curtiss, without any practice, and while himself driving his aeroplane, hit with ease a battleship target several times, have convinced the naval and military authorities of this country that the aeroplanes and aerial torpedo constitute a new danger, against which there is no existing protection.

GUN TALK FLIMSY.

Talk of guns which can be made to shoot five to ten thousand feet straight up overhead is considered flimsy and without foundation in fact.

It has been reported to the War Department that no practical net could be built to withstand the impact of a torpedo or projectile dropped at a height exceeding 500 feet. The momentum caused experimental shells used by the authorities to crash through even a steel wire netting which was made to make it equal to a half-inch steel plate.

Millionaires Meet With Thrilling Experience While On Motor Jaunt.

SANTA BARBARA, July 23.—Templeton Crocker and P. W. McNear, multimillionaires of San Francisco, met with a thrilling experience yesterday afternoon while motoring up the beach from Montecito. Riding in the former's $7000 automobile, they ventured too close to the water's edge and the machine suddenly began sinking in the sand. Before they realized their perilous position the automobile had sunk to such a depth that it was in danger, and to escape the incoming breakers the occupants were compelled to jump and run for high ground. Slowly but surely the machine was sinking from sight when a heavy wave arrived and pulled it on to terra firma.

A FEW SHORT WEEKS.

Mrs. J. S. Bartlett, Edwardsville, Ill., writes: "A few months ago my stomach became congested. I had severe backache and pain across the kidneys and hips. Foley's Kidney Pills promptly cured my backache and corrected the action of my kidneys. This was brought about after my using them for only a few short weeks, and I can cheerfully recommend them." Girl Incendiary in Boy's Clothes Escapes

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore., July 23.—Dressed as a boy, Casson, the 16-year-old girl incendiary, has escaped from the custody of the sheriff and is believed to be headed for California. The girl confessed to setting fire to the barn of a rancher at the instigation of a woman named Maggie Jones-Deal, to whom the ranchman is alleged to have sold a balky horse.

A bad taste in the mouth comes from a disordered stomach, and back of that is usually a torpid liver—a condition which invites disease. HERRDINE is the remedy needed. It cures the stomach and makes the liver active and regular. Price 50c. Sold by Wishart's Drug Store, Tenth and Washington Streets.
